

Gu Achi District

Process for Acquiring Homesite/Extension

1. Pick up a Homesite/Extension form at the Gu Achi District office, from your community representative or on the Gu Achi District website @guachidistrict.com. ONLY ONE NAME MAY BE LISTED PER HOMESITE/EXTENSION. Homesite Assignee must be an enrolled tribal member.
2. Identify homesite location and measure homesite area. Record measurements of the homesite and all existing homesite areas on a map. A hand drawn map is acceptable. Please indicate directions on map North, South, East, and West. Any individual who is knowledgeable may assist with the measurements for the homesite, providing the requester is present during measurements.
 - A. All new homesites must have archaeological and environmental clearance prior to submitting to Council for approval. Call the office listed below for assistance.
 - Culture Affairs Office (520) 383-3622
 - Natural Resources Office (520) 383-1511
 - B. All pre-existing homesites needing official documents shall be approved with current existing measurements on the map received. All pre-existing homesites will be exempt from 2(a) and number three (3).
 - C. If family members are still living and linked to the pre-existing homesite, a notarized document is required indicating all persons are in agreement that the requester may be named on the application.
3. Notify and obtain signatures from livestock association range boss and nearby resident or homeowner living within 300 feet from the edge of the fence/corner post/marker regarding pending homesite request. If individual disapproves of the homesite they should attend the community meeting to voice their concerns.
4. Homesite/extension will be presented at a community meeting for review and recommendation. The individual requesting for homesite/extension must attend the community meeting for review and recommendation.
5. The original homesite/extension form shall be submitted to the District Council Secretary, including the community meeting sign-in sheet. The district council Secretary shall prepare the homesite/extension for Policy and Procedure Committee review.
6. The individual, immediate family member, and recorder of measurement requesting for the homesite/extension and community representative must attend the Policy and Procedure Committee meeting.

7. After district council approval, individual must identify new homesite with corner posts or markers within one year. If a home is not being developed on the homesite, the resolution will be automatically rescinded one year from the date of approval.
8. When the homesite is approved the Chairperson or Vice Chairperson of the Gu Achi District shall notify the Gu Achi District Livestock Range Boss.

By signing below I have acknowledged that I have read and understand the process for acquiring a homesite/extension.
